EDITOR'S MESSAGE

Recent accolades on the national and international level have made us reflect a lot on success lately. In particular, how do we define success and what is the secret to achieving it? Society often equates success to wealth, honours or social status but the definition of success is subjective. It varies from person to person or even generation to generation.

Our research revealed that the meaning of success have evolved over the different generations driven by the circumstances of their times. Growing up in the era of opportunity and prosperity, the baby boomers regarded success to having a good education and securing a great job. A couple of generations down the line – the millennials changed the meaning of success, relating it to work-life balance and leading a meaningful and fulfilling life. The latest generation to enter the workforce – Gen Z is said to consider success as making it on their own i.e. running their own businesses and charting their own path.

For us, success is not easily defined because there is no end game. The best we can do is compare success to a journey with surprising milestones. Every achievement leads us to the next stage of our journey of a long-term commitment to establish and ensure continuity of our self-sustaining townships centred on ideals of good, wholesome living where residents can foster family, neighbourhood and community ties. It's a journey with no destination that involves continuously improving the way we do things, evolving with needs, learning from mistakes and shaping the industry.

Interestingly, one of the judges of the EdgeProp Malaysia's Responsible Developer: Building Sustainable Development 2019 Award, which we won for sustainable township observed that common traits among the winners were – humility and professionalism. He noted: "They carry an attitude of on-going learning and do not take challenges and their weaknesses lightly. Many adopt a system in their organisation where lessons learnt from issues and challenges faced in post-construction are channelled to the pre-construction team."

According to a study by Harvard Business Review of some of the oldest and celebrated organisations like NASA, the Royal Academy of Music, Eton College and the New Zealand All Blacks, are all driven by a purpose that is bigger than success. For example, shaping society, creating a better world or helping disadvantaged children. These centennials are also reported to focus on constantly improving themselves instead of being focused on growth.

While achieving success is commonly attributed to a list of dynamic and often, larger than life traits, the study also showed that a focus on traditional values like having a purpose bigger than us, focusing on bettering ourselves, humility and cooperation, among others is the way to go to ensure longevity. What's fascinating is, it is precisely what made them successful.

If you are working on something that you really care about, you don't have to be pushed.

The vision pulls you.

Gaining Big With Small Rituals

While a nice vacation, a spa or shopping session are some ways we tend to treat ourselves, special moments like these are usually occasional affairs. They are also only great while it lasts and too few and far between to have a long-term effect. Truth is, we don't have to wait for an occasion, save up or work hard to deserve special moments in our lives. There are simple actions we can incorporate daily, otherwise weekly that can promote the feel-good factor. Though seemingly simple, these small moments can have a significant impact on our wellbeing, in relieving stress, increasing positive feelings, self-esteem and more. Gain big with these simple ideas:

3 Open the windows

Let some fresh air into your space or smudge your living space with sage.

Put on something fancy 5

Don't wait for a special occasion to dress up. Put on your best outfit and head out. You will not only look good but feel great.

1 Light some candles

After a busy day, candlelight can create a cozy ambiance and instantly make you feel warm and soothed. Better still, light your favourite scented candles, then sit back, relax and let the aromas do the work.

2 Cleanse your space

A quick and simple de-cluttering of your space and putting things in order can help you relax, reduce stress, have peace of mind and even make you feel good.

Eat well 4

Spice things up and treat yourself to a fancy meal - three courses at least! A good meal is a delight to the senses, comforting and also reminds to enjoy the finer things in life.

6 Treat yourself

Give yourself a little treat just because you want it and not because you earned it. Whether it is nightly piece of chocolate or a gift to yourself, treats or indulgences can make you feel cared for, happy and motivated.

A GOLDEN WIN

*Desa ParkCity Wins FIABCI World Prix
d'Excellence Awards 2019*

WORLD GOLD WINNER
FIABCI PRIX D'EXCELLENCE AWARDS 2019
MASTER PLAN CATEGORY

NOW RECOGNISED AROUND THE WORLD

Hailed as the “Oscars” of real estate development, Desa ParkCity picked up the World Gold Award in the Master Plan category at the 25th FIABCI World Prix d’Excellence Awards 2019 ceremony held earlier this year in Moscow.

Winning the gold award is no mean feat and signifies a level of excellence recognised internationally. Each submission was judged stringently not only on architecture, design and construction but their impact on which benefits to the community and environment, and its financial and marketing success. The award winners truly embody an exceptional quality in all aspects of real estate development that make “the world a better place to live, work and enjoy”.

Receiving this prestigious award is a great recognition of the effort, aspiration and vision of the company, and more importantly, the support of our buyers over the years. It is indeed a crowning achievement and great endorsement of our long-term commitment in creating world-standard master plan townships.

Datuk Joseph Lau, Group Chief Executive Officer, ParkCity Group.

The long road to success

About two decades ago, when ParkCity Group first laid eyes on the barren and pockmarked quarry, the concept of a township based on sustainable living came to mind. Striving to go beyond offering just nice homes, the company set out to create a place where people feel with a genuine sense of belonging and identity and an environment that promotes and nurtures wholesome values. The outcome was a first of its kind New Urbanist community regarded by many as an innovative and successful model for a dynamic, safe and sustainable township.

The 20-year journey leading to the now matured Desa ParkCity has been a long and tedious one. Nevertheless, we have stayed committed to maintain the township and continuously improve it for the betterment of the community and society at large, says Datuk Lau.

A trailblazing vision of functional artistry

One of the greenest, safest and liveable master-planned development within the heart of a bustling and teeming Kuala Lumpur, the introduction of Desa ParkCity was revolutionary for the property market in Malaysia. A fully self-contained neighbourhood that consist of residential areas and commercial spaces, a mixed-used town centre complemented by tree-lined pedestrian pathways, jogging trails, cycling lanes, parks and a picturesque lake, the design of Desa ParkCity was guided by the concepts of walkability, connectivity and sustainability. It also centred on the ideals of good, wholesome living where residents can foster family, neighbourhood and community ties.

Behind A Master-planned Township

According to the World Bank, a master plan is a dynamic, long-term planning document providing a guide toward future growth and development of an area. It is about connecting buildings, social setting and the surrounding environments, and includes analysis and recommending what works best for an area's population, economy, housing, transportation, community facilities and land use.

Sustainability with a Human Touch

At Desa ParkCity, there is no distinction between being a liveable community and a sustainable township. As a masterplanned community based on the idea of an inclusive and harmonious living environment, centred on ideals like family, neighbourhood, community, connectivity and convenience, Desa ParkCity is a unique model of a sustainable township inspired by a human touch.

Recently awarded the EdgeProp Malaysia's Responsible Developer: Building Sustainable Development Award 2019, Perdana ParkCity was recognised for its focus on creating an ecosystem that cares for the environment, cultivates community living, prioritises quality and safety and encourages sustainability in managing the environment and development in the long term. The award acknowledges property developers who are committed to building sustainable developments that meets the needs of the present and future without compromising the building maintenance.

Some of aspects that make Desa ParkCity sustainable:

- Located within the township's 13.9 hectare Central Park is a lake that does not only bring down the temperature of the entire development but also serves as a retention pond and for stormwater management.
- Use of low-emission glass in high-rise residences, which could decrease energy consumption by 60 to 70 per cent as the use of air-conditioning is minimised. This in turn would lessen spending for residents and reduce their carbon footprint.

- Cultivating the Forest Gully at The Mansions where residents can tend to their own fruit orchard and enjoy sweet organic treats like durian, mango and ciku. The orchard saw the planting of 2373 trees, which eliminates 53 tonnes of CO₂ annually while releasing 237 tonnes of oxygen.

THE PURSUIT OF SUCCESS

At a time when a huge social media following accords wealth, position and honours, achieving success can appear effortless. Young internet “stars” and startups are often portrayed as overnight successes, but the reality couldn’t be further from the truth. It is estimated that 90% of startups actually fail. In Silicon Valley, it is normal for tech entrepreneurs to start one company after another, changing their strategies and reinventing themselves along the way, in their attempt to be the next Airbnb or Uber. Whether they succeed is hard to predict. And while it may look like social media influencers have made it big, having accrued a large following, it is really only the start of their journey. It takes a lot of effort to keep up the momentum, and it is precisely when these young entrepreneurs are put to the challenge.

We all aspire for success. Aside from its allure i.e. money, influence and fame, the pursuit of success is driven by our need for a sense of purpose and relevance. The journey however is not easy. Though the path has been paved by many who have gone before us, like life, it’s a personal journey that will put us to the test, even with someone walking beside us.

Do You Have What It Takes?

All great achievers share certain traits that made them successful. These important qualities are a must for navigating the ups and down, to overcome failures and most importantly, to keep going. Some of these attributes are:

Resilience: The ability to recover from failures and to keep trying.

Passion: The desire to keep on learning and mastering your trade or craft

Confidence: Believing in yourself

Integrity: a steady adherence to moral and ethical principles that promote trust and respect

Grit: strength of character defined by courage and resolve

Lessons from the Centennials

According to Harvard Business Review, one of the reasons companies that have stood the test of time have endured is they are never focused on success but on getting better. Its study of several distinguished 100-year old companies from different industries revealed that all the centennials were very similar to each other in that they all:

- Have a stable purpose: They are focused on how they can shape and impact society whether their purpose is to help mankind, open the arts to everyone, raise their country's profile, etc.
Engage kids: Centennials start cultivating their talent young by working with children. This way it also helps them stay relevant.
- Cultivate openness: They invite public scrutiny to create pressure for them to do better.
- Are about being better not bigger: They are not concerned about getting big and are prudent about growth. Instead they are focused on maintaining their standards and getting better by tirelessly improving themselves.
- Are not focused on success: Centennials don't celebrate their success. They meticulously study their achievements instead to see what worked, what didn't and where could do better.

It's all about the journey

When it comes to achieving your goal(s), many say it is the sweat, toil and tears are what they treasure and remember most compared to the triumph or victory of attaining the primary aim itself. The tests, hardships and lessons learnt before reaching to the top builds and shapes character. The late American author, political activist and lecturer Helen Adams Keller once said: "Character cannot be developed in ease and quiet. Only through experience of trial and suffering can the soul be strengthened, ambition inspired and success achieved."

PARK REGENT

by the water

Nestled in the heart of the Central Park, by the central lake, Park Regent features two cascading towers that present stunning and exclusive views of the parklands and the water. Comprising spacious and well-detailed homes, units are complemented by amenities that meet the needs of a diverse group of homeowners from families to empty nesters.

A joint-venture by two of Asia's largest developers - ParkCity group and CapitaLand Singapore, Park Regent benefits from decades of combined experience, expertise and commitment in creating masterplanned townships focused on family, neighbourhood, community, connectivity and convenience as well as building architecturally excellent homes. Delivered to you by a world-renowned team of consultant, Park Regent is the eminent address in Desa ParkCity.

Q & A

ARCHITECT

Christopher Lee

Co-founder and Principal, Serie Architects

The recipient of the prestigious BD Young Architect of the Year Award in 2008 and named one of 10 visionary architects for the new decade by the Leading European Architects, Serie is renowned for their emblematic and memorable designs around the world that is defined by simplicity, elegance, clear spatial organisation, good proportion and close integration with nature.

What drew Serie Architects to this project?

Desa ParkCity's model of a defensible, high density living environment nested in a lush landscape, is one that is unique to KL, perhaps not repeatable elsewhere. Park Regent is also the best site currently available in Desa ParkCity and offers the opportunity to push these qualities to another level.

What is Serie's approach with Park Regent?

To make Park Regent part of the lake itself. So, we've arranged two towers that frame the view towards the lake, and cradle a large open space that directly opens out towards the lake. The podium car park is terraced like a hill that gently cascades down towards the lake. It will also host a rich and varied set of amenities that overlooks the lake.

Tell us about the inspiration behind the design.

We approach the design with our understanding of architectural history and knowledge - the highrise typology in particular, and the effects of certain typologies like the ubiquitous car park podium on the urban environment.

LANDSCAPE

COEN Design International

An award-winning landscape architecture firm, COEN believes in doing things a little differently to present experiences that are unique and vibrant, as evident from iconic projects such as Sky Habitat, DUO, V on Shenton and Market Street. COEN is a Guinness World Record holder, for creating the largest vertical garden for the condominium project, Tree House in Singapore.

INTERIOR

Peter Tay

Interior designer to the stars and international luxury brands, Peter Tay is noted for his understated modernist look and flair for the unexpected. His portfolio includes high-profile residential and commercial projects as luxury showflats for SC Global and The Met in Bangkok along with boutiques and showrooms for Richard Mille, Manolo Blahnik and Armani Casa. Tay is the recipient of the Designer of the Year award at the President's Design Awards in Singapore.

GREEN ICONS IN THE CITY

Cities around the world are recognised for its iconic landmarks.

New York has the Empire State Building; India, the Taj Mahal; and Kuala Lumpur has the Twin Towers. A landmark gives the city a sense of identity, it symbolises its history, achievements and aspirations. Typically skyscrapers, these icons exhibit the highest feats of engineering and architecture of its time. This is increasingly illustrated by green technologies, solutions and design as evident by the rise of sustainable architecture in the last decade. Even old landmarks such as the Empire State Building, Eiffel Tower and the Sydney Opera House have been “greened” in recent years with new lighting, windows and heating and cooling systems, in the bid to be energy efficient.

4 Iconic Green Buildings Around the World

1 Bahrain World Trade Centre

It is the first high-rise in the world to have wind turbines, which provides around 15 % of the building total power consumption. It is also covered with solar glass, which reduces the temperature in the building and has a innovative cooling system.

2 Shanghai Tower

Besides being energy and water-efficient, the tallest tower in China is also equipped with wind turbines – 270 of them, to power the exterior lights. Among other features, the design of the building encourages optimal rainwater harvesting and it's heating and cooling system uses 80% less energy than similar towers.

3 7 More London Building

London's most sustainable building has a 16,500 square metre solar control glass façade that keeps it cool in the summers and provides good insulation in the winter, supplying a natural heating and cooling system. It also has a highly intelligent IT system that allows office workers to control lighting and temperature at their workstations.

4 Bank of America

One of the greenest buildings in the world, this tower located in New York is heated by sunlight, uses waste water and rain water and is designed to provide maximum natural light. A lot of the building's materials come from recycled and renewable sources.

Miri Goes Green

Miri City is on track in its aspirations to become a green city, unveiling its plan for an eco-friendly City Council Building. Set to be the city's landmark, the nine-storey building, which is located along the shoreline of Marina ParkCity, will incorporate Green Building Index elements that emphasise on energy and water efficiency, indoor environmental quality, sustainable site planning and management, materials and resources usage and innovative design that promote sustainability in the built environment. The iconic building, in the shape of an oil barrel, in honour of the oil-producing region, will be completed in December 2020.

The World Feels The Love _____

Beloved around the world, the iconic LOVE sculpture, with the letters L and tilted O stacked above the letters V and E was originally designed by American artist Robert Indiana for a Christmas card commissioned by the Museum of Modern Art in 1965. The bold red letters in serif font against the a green and blue background was said to be inspired by the artist's childhood attending a Christian Science church, which had the inscription 'God is Love' in the front wall.

Fashioned into a sculpture in 1970, the original art piece led Indiana to design over 50 versions in the following decades, varying in scale, colour, language and even word but always retaining the signature serif typeface and tilted character. Gracing different sites like urban centres, museums, universities and parks, the LOVE sculpture can be found in cities around the world from New York, Spain, Taipei to Singapore.

LOVE Takes Over Miri

Inspired by the emblematic LOVE sculpture, Miri Times Square unveiled its own LOVE sculpture at the Victoria Plaza, where work meets play. At seven feet in height and in bold red letters, the I LOVE MTS sculpture adds a pop art touch to surrounding and set to be a popular “Instagram-able” spot in Miri. The sculpture was unveiled during the visit by the Miss Grand Malaysia 2019 (MGM) finalists here in Miri Times Square, Marina ParkCity, which was selected as one of the few attractions for the pageant activities.

To Another Successful Year

With each passing school year seemingly busier and better than the last, it is true to say that ISP KL is a very successful school. One indicator is ISP was once again awarded 5 Star Status following the Ministry of Education (Kementerian Pendidikan) inspection. We were also awarded Gold Level Status for the recent International Schools Quality Mark (ISQM) accreditation. A defining feature of ISP KL's success is that it truly is the sum of many small parts with each member of the school community playing an important role in contributing to its ongoing success.

- Jonathan Turner
Principal
The International School
@ ParkCity

Success is the sum of small efforts, repeated day in and day out.

- Robert Collier, author

So much has happened since the start of this academic year that it is difficult to list all of the achievements, activities and memories that have been made. Some of the highlights were undoubtedly the secondary school production of Les Miserables for its outstanding live music, the AIMS Secondary Orchestra and Choir Festival hosted by ISP and our students' exceptional performance at the Federation Of British International Schools In Asia (FOBISIA) Games. We also welcomed Mr Daniel Painter from the British High Commission as guest speaker at our Year 13 Graduation ceremony this year.

It is striking by just how quickly time has flown by this year. The feeling of time flying by quickly often happens when one is in a 'state of flow', when a person is fully immersed in an activity. This aptly summarises how the year has flown by for the students and teachers at ISP.

ISP students come to school each day eager to learn and it is wonderful to see students taking full advantage of the many opportunities available to them. ISP teachers too are fully involved in school life and with their students' development. ISP is fortunate to employ such exceptional professionals who make innumerable 'small efforts' across the year to help create the best educational experiences for our students.

ISPKL & ISPH - An International Partnership

As ParkCity's second school, ISPH not only plans to follow the same path to success as ISPKL but to help build the group's reputation for providing world-class international education within its townships. Andrew Dalton, founding Principal @ ISPKL and now Director of Education across the group, identifies 8 key factors which help underpin the success of our schools:

- Leadership with clear goals and direction
- Teamwork
- Positive Attitude
- Value for money

Characteristics to achieve a positive school environment:

- Secure & Organised Environment: the physical environment must be safe and welcoming, and support learning.
- Social Relationships: the school must encourage positive communication and interaction among students, teachers, and the wider community.
- Student Support: students must feel emotionally supported to encourage high self-esteem and a sense of belonging.
- Academic Support: an academic environment that sets high expectations and is conducive to learning and achievement for all students.

MARINA LAGOON

@ MARINA PARKCITY

THE ALLURE OF LIVING BY THE SEA

A picturesque view along the coastline exclusively for you. It is quite simply, the perfect place for those seeking to restore the peace and balance that is depleted by city living.

The perfect place in Marina ParkCity to build your dream home.
